Dear Parents and Students,

Welcome to our Eagle U family! We are so excited and grateful to have you with us! It is a privilege for me to get to know your family and have you join us this summer.

To the parents - thank you so much for what you're doing for your student. Thirteen years ago, my parents made the decision to send me to Eagle U, and it was hands-down the best thing they ever did for me. I loved the program so much that I attended every single year as a student, then as a Team Leader, and now as the Executive Director. The week your student spends at Eagle U will be life-changing. At Eagle U, we know that your child is the most important thing in the world to you. Therefore, I want to assure you that their health, safety, and wellbeing is our number one priority. It's my personal promise to you that they will have an incredible week.

To the students - you may or may not know exactly what you're getting into...and that's okay! For the majority of our students, this is their first time attending and they don't know anyone either, so if you fall into that boat please do not worry, you're not alone. I promise you that once you arrive at Eagle U, you will feel right at home. I know that it may not sound entirely appealing to spend a week of your summer vacation at a youth success conference, but I guarantee that you will have an amazing time and you won't regret coming! The skills you will learn at Eagle U are going to help you get anything you want out of life!

This Student Welcome Packet contains almost everything you will need to know and do to prepare for Eagle U. You will probably need to reference this packet multiple times as it contains important information and action-items that you will need to complete. Please keep this packet saved in a safe place so you can access it easily.

I am here for you should you have any questions or need any help at all! Please never hesitate to reach out. My email is taylor@eagleuniversity.org and my personal cell is (303) 525-8878. Feel free to email, text, or call me anytime!

I can't wait to meet you this summer! And for those of you that have been before, I can't wait to see you again!

Taylor Lowe - Eagle U, Executive Director

The History and Overview of Eagle U

Eagle U was co-founded in the 1990's by Steven J. Anderson. As an entrepreneur and mentor to thousands of professionals and business executives, he identified Natural Laws of human behavior and designed systems to accomplish predictable, consistent results in business and in life.

For years, those professionals he worked with asked for a way that their own children could learn these Natural Laws and their applications early in life, in order to avoid the many pitfalls and mistakes that so many people make. Since then, Steve and the Eagle U team have worked with thousands of young adults to accomplish that objective.

It's a common scenario: four years of high school, four years of college, and then what? Most people spend the first seven years out of college bouncing around from job to job, often returning for more schooling because they can't make a career decision, until they finally get stuck in some career they can barely tolerate.

At Eagle U, you will learn success principles from today's business leaders and role models, as well as techniques and systems that when followed, will help you move more rapidly through your education and skip the trial and error process to find a career and a job that fits you.

Throughout the course of the program, you will challenge yourself, identify your strengths, achieve greater independence, gain confidence, and ignite your passion. You will acquire a better understanding of your interpersonal relationships and develop valuable leadership skills. By the end of the week, you will have a road map that will lead you where you want to go. The goals and the dreams you create for yourself will be well within your reach.

Congratulations on having the courage to do something that most are not willing to do... to be a little different and achieve a lot more.

A Day In the Life at Eagle U...

CAMPUS LIFE

Your home while at Eagle U will be the campus residence buildings on the University campus. Each dorm room will have twin beds, dressers, desks, and a bathroom. In addition, all rooms are air-conditioned. Members of our Eagle U team will also live on each floor so that they can get to know you better and be nearby in case you need extra help or support. You will eat in the campus dining halls, which feature a wide variety of options for each meal, including hot entrees, a salad bar, desserts and vegetarian, vegan, and gluten-free and allergy-free selections.

YOUR EAGLE U TEAM

Prior to arriving at Eagle U, you will be thoughtfully and carefully placed in a team of 8 to 12 other students in your age group. Your team will be your “family” during the week. You will be with your team during the main program, meals, and breakout sessions. Each team will be led by an amazing and qualified Team Leader who will ensure that you have the best experience possible. A couple weeks prior to arriving, your Team Leader will give you a welcome call and answer any questions you may have.

Dear Eagle U. Parents,

Congratulations on sending your son or daughter to Eagle University this year. The skills that they will learn during this incredible program will help them become the best possible self. We are excited to get to know them and work with them this week. One of the things that I have noticed the past several years is that many of our students have some anxiety during the week. This is especially common in students who are away from home for the first time. There are a few things that you can do to help your son or daughter have a successful week.

First, supportive and sensitive communication can go a long way. Any new experience, especially in a new environment, causes nervousness, but a positive outlook and encouragement are crucial to a successful away-from-home experience. I think the statement that a long-time summer camp director made is true that “Homesickness is as much a parent’s problem as it is a child’s problem.” If you talk to your child during the week of Eagle U be positive about your expectations, the activities, and the environment, what they are learning and, of course, the fun they can have at Eagle U. An encouraged child will feel less apprehensive about their experience.

Second, how a parent responds to a “homesick” call can make or break the Eagle U experience. According to University of California psychologist Chris Thurber, homesickness is actually the norm and not the exception. In his studies he found that a whopping 83% of campers studied reported homesickness on at least one day during their experience. Anxiety away from home is a part of growing up and breaking away. Most people experience homesickness at some time in their lives and for your child, this may be the first experience with this feeling. Dealing with this anxiety in a supportive environment such as Eagle U can be an opportunity to learn and gain self-confidence. Eagle U is a place where your child will learn about responsibility, have fun with new friends, and have new experiences. Eagle U is a safe, caring environment where nurturing adults are trained to support students through this sometimes difficult growth process.

Some things to consider as you interact with your child during the week include the following.

- Be sympathetic, but positive and encouraging in your replies.
- Ask lots of questions about their activities and new friends, and be encouraging.
- Text messaging is a great way to send a quick, encouraging note. Parents need to be careful, though, not to send so many instant “messages” that they interfere with their child’s adjustment to a week away from home.

We hope to provide all of our students a fabulous experience at Eagle University, to improve their self-esteem and to give them new tools to succeed in all areas of life. You can help us and your son or daughter to be successful this week with your positive communication.

I will be on campus all week and will be available to help any student with any signs of anxiety and homesickness. Feel free to contact me with any concerns before or after camp for this or any other medical concerns.

Best,
Jeff Anderson, MD Eagle University - Program Physician

General Information & FAQ's

Dietary Restrictions & Food Allergies

All students will eat every meal at the University Dining Hall. If your student has dietary restrictions or food allergies, there will be a section of the student medical form where you will be able to inform us of such needs. The dining hall is fully equipped to accommodate any restrictions or allergies.

Student Safety & Security

Your student's safety is our number one priority. We will be on the University Campus during the duration of the entire program, and no student will be permitted to leave campus. The University has on-site campus security available 24/7 ensuring a safe campus. While at the program, participants will be broken into groups. Each group will be led by a team leader: an experienced, responsible young adult who has already proven their knowledge of Eagle U principles by living them. In addition, the Executive Director and program staff will be housed in the same dormitory building as the students.

Health & Medical

Please make sure you thoroughly complete the student medical form so that Eagle U staff is fully aware of any medical needs your student may have. Prior to arriving at the program, Dr. Jeff Anderson (Eagle U Program Physician) will review each student's medical form so that he is fully aware of any medical needs. There will be a licensed nurse and/or doctor on staff during the duration of the program. If your student has prescription medication, please make sure to pack it with them along with instructions.
